Join Adam Zurn, founder of Uncharted Lancaster, as he recounts his expeditions down the lower Susquehanna to explore the mysterious Native American petroglyphs hidden on the ancient river at Safe Harbor. These 1,000-year-old carvings represent some of the oldest man-made artifacts in Lancaster County and one of the most significant archeological sites in the northeastern United States. Zurn will discuss their significance and possible meanings as well as share some local legends surrounding the rock art.

Adam Zurn is a passionate historian, educator, and adventurer known for his deep connection to Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. He is the founder of Uncharted Lancaster, a popular social media platform and website dedicated to uncovering and sharing the hidden history and legends of the region.
